

Drug Supply Chain Security Act (DSCSA)

In our continuing effort to provide our customers with updated information regarding significant industry developments, we have included a link below with the FDA's Drug Supply Chain Security Act (DSCSA) Law and Policies which amends the Federal Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act (the "Act") that was signed into law in November 2013.

As indicated below, the Act imposes requirements on manufacturers, wholesaler drug distributors, repackagers and dispensers to verify that all pharmaceutical products are legitimate, utilizing identification and tracking procedures as well as maintaining systems that recognize and report suspect products.

If you would like to view the complete DSCSA documents, it can be found on the FDA website.

The FDA web page outlines critical steps to build an electronic, interoperable system to identify and trace certain prescription drugs as they are distributed in the U.S.

Ten years after enactment, the system will facilitate the exchange of information at the individual package level about where a drug has been in the supply chain. The new system will:

- Enable verification of the legitimacy of the drug product identifier down to the package level
- Enhance detection and notification of illegitimate products in the drug supply chain, and
- Facilitate more efficient recalls of drug products

Drug manufacturers, wholesale drug distributors, repackagers, and many dispensers (primarily pharmacies) will be called upon to work in cooperation with FDA to develop the new system during this 10 year period which started in 2013. Among key provisions that will be implemented over this 10 year period are requirements for:

- Product identification: Manufacturers and repackagers to put a unique product identifier on certain prescription drug packages, for example, using a bar code that can be easily read electronically.
- Product tracing: Manufacturers, wholesaler drug distributors, repackagers, and many dispensers (primarily pharmacies) in the drug supply chain to provide information about a drug and who handled it each time it is sold in the U.S. market.
- Product verification: Manufacturers, wholesaler drug distributors, repackagers, and many dispensers (primarily pharmacies) to establish systems and processes to be able to verify the product identifier on certain prescription drug packages.
- Detection and response: Manufacturers, wholesaler drug distributors, repackagers, and many dispensers (primarily pharmacies) to quarantine and promptly investigate a drug that has been identified as suspect, meaning that it may be counterfeit, unapproved, or potentially dangerous.
- Notification: Manufacturers, wholesaler drug distributors, repackagers, and many dispensers (primarily pharmacies) to establish systems and processes to notify FDA and other stakeholders if an illegitimate drug is found.
- Wholesaler licensing: Wholesale drug distributors to report their licensing status and contact information to FDA. This information will then be made available in a public database.
- Third-party logistics provider licensing: Third-party logistic providers, those who provide storage and logistical operations related to drug distribution, to obtain a state or federal license.

The law requires FDA to develop standards, guidance documents, and pilot programs and to conduct public meetings, in addition to other efforts necessary to support efficient and effective implementation. FDA is developing a schedule for implementing the law's requirements. This system will enhance the FDA's ability to help protect consumers from exposure to drugs that may be counterfeit, stolen, contaminated, or otherwise harmful. The system will improve detection and removal of potentially dangerous drugs from the drug supply chain to protect U.S. consumers. Failure to comply with the requirements of the law can result in penalties.

Frequently Asked Question & Invoices

FAQ

Q. Is Anda currently compliant with the track-and-trace requirements of Drug Supply Chain Security Act (DSCSA)?

Yes. Anda, Inc., a Florida company that purchases all prescription products directly from the manufacturers of those products, is fully compliant with all provisions of DSCSA which took effect January 1, 2015. Prior to January 1st, 2015, Anda was fully compliant with Florida pedigree law which has been incorporated into the DSCSA.

All Anda and AndaMEDS invoices contain all the information that is required by DSCSA of a wholesale distributor that purchases prescription products directly from the manufacturers of those products, including the following statement (see Exhibit A):

This wholesale distributor, or a member of its affiliated group, purchased the product directly from the manufacturer, exclusive distributor, or repackager that purchased directly from the manufacturer. This wholesale distributor has complied with each applicable subsection of FDCA sec. 581 (27) (a) - (g).

Q. Does Anda maintain all of the required information for a period of at least six years?

Yes. Anda has always maintained a complete history of each customer invoice for as long as the customer has been ordering from Anda.
